

"On the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, [Congress] shall call a convention for proposing amendments."

— Article V, U.S. Constitution

Washington is broken.

Unelected bureaucrats have stripped states of their rightful decision-making authority. Consequently, the debt is out of control, regulations crush free enterprise, and our freedoms have been diluted.

We have a solution as big as the problem.

Article V of the Constitution allows the states to call a Convention of States to propose constitutional amendments to limit federal spending, debt, and regulations. Amendments can put big government back in its constitutional box and restore power to the states and the people.

Sign the Convention of States petition at conventionofstates.com

to call for an Article V Convention limited to proposing constitutional amendments that:

Impose fiscal restraints on the federal government

Limit the power and jurisdiction of the federal government

Limit the terms of office for federal officials, bureaucrats, and members of Congress

HOW IT WORKS:

Thirty-four states pass resolutions with the same subject matter for a convention of states.

The states elect delegates, known as commissioners, to represent them at the convention. States send as many delegates as they choose, but each state gets one vote.

Delegates propose, debate, and vote on amendments at the convention based on their resolution. Proposed amendments passed by a majority of state delegates are sent to the states for ratification.

When 38 states ratify a proposed amendment, it becomes part of the Constitution.
